Toni Morrison

There is no such thing as race. None. There is just a human race – scientifically, anthropologically.

- About our project

We are three young women who come from the land that is known as “ the land of many faces “ .

Reunion Island is our land . It is an isolated melting pot of European, Malgache, Indian, Asian and African civilisations, where everyone lives in harmony.

The population of Reunion Island is a singularly rich blend that is reflected in religion, culture and art, and cuisine.

Through this project , we wanted to share a message of hope, peace, and tolerance as well as preventing racial discrimination.

Racial discrimination is any discrimination against an individual on the basis of skin color or racial or ethnic origin.

- About our school

The school where we study , Hedeci school , is based on the principle of innovative pedagogy . It means valuing the wellbeing of the students and pushing them to become the best version of themselves.
